

Visualizing the World in Words

Technical Communications:

The art and technique of using words and imagery effectively to convey information or ideas via multiple information platforms.

Your company needs to communicate its message clearly through its marketing literature, product documentation, production procedures, website and more.

A technical communicator has the necessary experience in your field, as well as the communications field, to create that message clearly and expertly. Don't leave your company's reputation in the hands of employees who aren't properly trained in the field of documentation. It's not just about knowing how to write, but also how to find the right information to create a useful document that won't just be shelved.

Saving upfront costs by taking shortcuts will only cost your company in future expenses and your irreplaceable reputation. Call and start your communication plan today.

Your one-stop writing and designing solution

C Brajkovich Writing & Research

PO Box 1865
Temecula, CA 92593-1865

tel: 760.207.4634
email: carolyn@cbrajwrite.com
web: www.cbrajwrite.com